

WHOLE LOTTA REASONS

By: Randy Swift

I remember watching Daddy take his final breath & fade away
It was in the fall of 84' but I recall it just like yesterday
Though he was weak & he could not speak he turned his head until his eyes found mine
In death his eyes were saying the words I'd heard him say in life a thousand times

We've gotta a whole lotta reasons to go to heaven
We have so many loved ones waiting there.
And if I had to face the fact we'd never meet again
That would be a lot for me to bare
There's a whole lotta reasons to go there

Almost everyone I know has a loved one who has crossed the tide
And if the savoir tarries, we all must cross that river deep & wide
But I've made my decision to join my family where all things are new I've made the choice that counts for me; you need to make the one that counts for you

When I reach that city, I will be so glad
Cause just inside that eastern gate I'm gonna meet with my Mom & Dad
But after that reunion, there is one who is greater still
He made the whole thing possible when he walked up Calvary's hill.
