

Beyond The Sunset

Someday this life will all be over, someday our souls will fly away
To be in judgment with our savior at the sunset of life's day
I'd like to join the celebration somewhere beyond the setting sun
Where I will hear the savior tell me a crown of life I've won

Beyond the sunset, beyond the shadows, beyond this vale of grief and pain
Beyond the sunset and death's dark valley I know that I will live again
Beyond the heartache and separation the pearly gates will open wide
Beyond the sunset there's glory waiting I shall see what waits inside

And if a mansion I inherit in that sweet home beyond the blue
There I will rest upon the hillside where Heaven's scenes I'll view
I'd like to live beside my Mother and be with her while ages roll
To walk the golden street of glory would be joy unto my soul
